TEMPLE ARRESTED BURGLARY CHARGE

ATLANTHUS MAN CONFESSED TO CLEARMONT GARAGE CRIME

UP IN COURT MONDAY

Sheriff Dowden Unable to Locate the Tires and Other Parties Connected with Temple in This Burglary

Oren J. Temple, who runs a country garage one and a half miles north of Atlanthus in Gentry county, was arrested yesterday afternoon by Sheriff John Dowden on a charge of burglary and larcency of the Garrett's garage at Clearmont Thursday night. He finally confessed to being guilty and claimed two other men were with him but has so far refused to give the names of these parties.

Temple was in Clearmont Thursday afternoon about five o'clock and stopped his car in front of the Valdo Lawrence garage there. He visited the Garrett garage, which is across the street and Mr. Lawrnce noticed that a dealers license was on his car and took the number down. No one else was seen with Temple in Clearmont at that time. Friday morning Lawrence accompanied by Garrett came to Maryville and informed Sheriff Dowden and gave him the license number of this car. Sheriff Dowden in calling up the secretary of state found that Oren J. Temple of near Stanberry had this number and Mr. Dowden and Messrs Garrett and Lawrence left at once for that place and arrester Temple.

Temple, who is about 23 years old, has told a number of conflicting stories. He said at first he met a couple strangers in a pool hall at Maryville who gave him $100 to drive them to Clearmont. He stated he had deposited the money in a bank at Stanberry Friday morning and when Sheriff Dowden was going to call up the banks there, Temple admitted he had not received nor did he deposit any money there.

The party found three inner tubes but have been unable to locate the tires and Temple has refused to give them their location.

Temple waived his preliminary this morning and will be tried before Judge Dawson Monday morning at the opening of the April term of circuit court. It is said that Temple has been convicted once before of breaking into a garage and was given a jail sentence and a fine and was paroled for good cause shown.

DON'T FAIL TO BE THERE

Are you FOR or AGAINST Education?

Missouri ranks first in pure bed live stock, second in mules, third in hogs and corn, fifth in agriculture, seventh in wealth and THIRTY-SECOND in EDUCATION.

Let's raise OUR district above that of the Ozarks and the "back woods" and give our future citizens the benefit of the best possible education.

We can only do this by VOTING YES on the proposed increased levy and bond issue for adding to teachers salaries and increasing the facillities of our public school building.

We might have refused to grant wage increases to railroad men, but we did not; we might have refused to grant increases to laboring men in other lines but we did not. If refusal is made in the case of the school teachers there will be no teachers—it is nonsense to take any other view of it—they will be forced into other lines of work where they can earn living wages.

Neither can we accommodate 400 high school students in a building designed for 200 and without adequate modern improvements for keeping the quality of teaching up to a modern standard and giving us the advantage of vocational agriculture teaching under the Smith-Hughes act whereby the government pays all the salary of an $1,800 man.

In three years the enrollment of the high school has increased from 208 to 332, but the tax levy for maintenance is still $1 as it was three years ago.

In addition to the advantages offered all students by increased room for classes and study there will be a gymnasium—not for play—but for actual work in physical training and for social gatherings and a "place to go" besides the streets and amusements halls for our young people.

The third is to provide for more room at the Central Building. The class room shortage has become acute, and the situation must be looked square in the face. IF YOU WANT OUR CHILDREN CARED FOR LIKE THEY SHOULD BE VOTE FOR THIS PROPOSITION.

The Wilcox School Levy.

Since there is so much misunderstanding and misrepresentation of the facts concerning the consolidated district at Wilcox, we feel it our duty to make this statement of the facts as they exist. We know that the good people of that community are progressive and reasonable if they are right fully informed and they want their boys and girls to have a square deal. We believe they will go to the polls next Tuesday and vote the very conservative levy asked for by the board of education that the school in that community may be maintained next year with good teachers and for a period of eight months.

The board is asking the people to vote 85 cents on the 100 dollars assessed valuation of the district. That means the valuation after the equalization board have cut it 66 2-3 per cent. The figures below given are taken from the county clerks record and can been seen by any one.

Total valuation of the consolidated district is $638,231. The levy asked for is 85 cent on the $100 or 8½ mills on the dollar. $638,231 times .0085 equals $5424.96. There are exactly 18,480 acres of land in the district. If all this tax were placed on the land it would amount to $5424.96 divided by 18480 equals 29 7-9 cents per acre on the average for the whole district. This does not mean in addition to what it has cost here tofore but the entire school tax including personal property, land and all. In fact it will be less than that as Wilcox town pays a portion of this. Some one has said the tax would be $1.00 per acre which is a grievious error. A number of our rural districts are making a levy of $1.30 on the $100 valuation this year to meet increased costs. Dr. Hereford of Maryville stands ready to enter in to contract with any man in the Wilcox consolidated district to pay the school tax on that man's land for 40 cents per acre per year, for a period of five years.

The budget for running the schools next year as estimated by the board is as follows:

RECEIPTS

State aid $25 per square mile or fraction thereof, $725

State and county funds, $762

Amount of money on hand at beginning of last year and practically same will be left this year, $658.66

Amount to come in by taxes of 85 cents on $100 valuation less the 2½ per cent collectors commission of $135.74 would be $5424.96 less $134.74 equals $5289.22

Total, $7434.88

EXPENDITURES

Six rural teachers for 8 months at $100 per month, $4800

One high school teacher, $1199

Repairs and incidentals on school buildings, $850

Rent on H .S. building, $300

Total, $7350

We certify the above to be correct with the understanding that the budget is estimated to the best of our ability.

Vocational Education

(W. T. Carrington, State Director)

Vocational education is the father of what may be rightly called the project method. It may with propriety be appropriated by any form of industrial teaching or applied to any subject calling for a very large share of doing as distinguished from studying.

The aim is to give children opportunity to use their constructive instincts and power. They are to be guided only in taking the initiative in planning and in doing some worth while thing growing out of the life they are now living.

From the child's view point, the project must grow out of a recognized need. He must have had experience suggestive of how the thing may be done. He should outline his own procedure after having studied, observed and compared. He should see the end before beginning. He must know something of what efforts are necessary to the accomplishment and what tools, materials, and equipment are required He must have some idea of the cost, in time, energy and application.

Lesson planting is necessary to successful teaching. In teaching any lesson, many problems will be set up for solution. Each is an element of the teaching project. One of the best examples of the project method is found in the preparation of teachers in the teacher training institution. The department of education theoretically sets up ideals, the supervisor guides his student teachers into doing a real worth while job in a real school made up of real pupils under natural environments This is making teachers by the project method.

For the boy learning the building trade his project may be the construction of a garage. He must know what he needs, what are its uses, what materials are necessary. He needs to learn mechanical drawing and the making of blue prints and should make drawings and specifications for his garage. He will assemble material and in due order lay foundation and concrete floor, erect the frame, enclose, cover, glaze, paint and wire. In doing all this he has studied, observed, planned and put over a job on a very useful and productive basis.

This is a major project made up of several minor projects. There are problems too numerous to mention. It is a project on a dignified scale. Those engaged in vocational work are not fully agreed upon what shall be called a project, but are agreed that peeling potatoes, making a bed, currying a horse and milking a cow are worthy problems, but lack the dignity of a real project either minor or major.

There is a plea for applying the project method to teaching vocational subjects, and to express the belief that it is a misnomer to apply the term to teaching humanistic and scientific subjects. The project method is vocational education leads to vitalizing and motivating the teaching of literature, language, history, civics, arts and sciences. Whenever real projects are set up in teaching it passes into the realm of vocational education.

The Mournful Kid.

Little Willie, together with his parents, was invited to a Sunday dinner at the home of his uncle. Chicken was the piece de resistance of the gladsome layout, and, being a great lover of the dainty morsel, Willie expanded his appetite to fit the occasion.

When the dessert was served the youngster had to balk. Manfully he made two or three stabs at the dish and then gazed at it with a dejected expression.

"What's the matter, Willie?" asked youngster. "You look mournful."

"That's just what the matter is," pathetically answered Willie. "I am more'n full."—Chicago Journal.

"The Crew Machine with the Red Strap"

It Is So Easy To Keep Kiddies' Things Clean with the

Maytag

Cabinet Electric Washer

Are the children's things a problem in your home? Do you dread to see the hamper grow higher and higher with soiled pieces?

Think what a blessing a Maytag Cabinet Electric Washer would be. When the children's things pile up, simply put them in the Maytag aluminum cylinder—turn the switch. That's all—positively all.

The forceful action of the water produced by the Millrace Principle flushes out every atom of dirt. Handles each piece as carefully as your hands. Prevents the wear of continued rubbing. And saves so much time.

It's the same with everything—due to the wonders of this scientific Millrace Principle. Heavy things, coarse things, light things, frilly things, from rag rugs to delicate laces, are perfectly cleansed in the wonderful Maytag aluminum cylinder. Nothing touches them but hot, sudsy water. All the cleansing action is produced in the water by the Millrace Principle. A cylinder full of clothes usually requiring 15 to 25 minutes is throughly washed in 10 to 12 minutes.

Why be behind the times? Why worry about wash-day and washwomen? Come see a demonstration of the Millrace Principle. Come see for yourself why this improved scientific machine is converting thousands of women to the modern idea of washing by machine. If you don't fully understand the reasons for the Maytag's popularity, don't fail to see a demonstration at once. Come to our store or phone us. We will show it to you in your own home.

QUESTION IS WHO ARE THE FARMERS?

American Farm Bureau Federation Not Political in Program But Will "Call the Turn" on Reds.

For the past year or more much publicity has been given to statements from Washington emanating from men assuming to speak for the agriculturists of American on any and all subjects especially proposed legislation. Operating under the title of "The Farmers National Council," these men have assumed to exert great influence upon legislators and public officials at the nations capital. Lately they appear to have allied themselves with labor radicals and other extremists, and there have been suggestions that they were co-operating in the organization of a political party in which the chief elements were to be the farmers and labor unions. The antipathy of the American farmer to labor unionism has long been known. Then, too, the farmer is seldom a radical. It is not surprising, therefore, to learn that at its recent national conference the American Farm Bureau Federation adopted the following resolution: "We wish the American people to definitely understand that the organization self-styled "The Farmers National Council" has no authority to speak in behalf of the farmers of this country. And all efforts on the part of the 'Farmers National Council' to ally the agriculturists of America with the radicals in the industrial world is hereby denounced." The American Farm Bureau Federation does not seem to be at all indefinite in its actuality. Founded on the practical, successful work of the county farm agent in many states, this body grew from county farm bureau units to the state federation, and then blossomed into a national federation. It covers nearly 50 states and has almost half a million paying members on its rolls. Politics naturally is not on the program of such a body, but evidently intends to speak for the farmer when necessary, and particularly when it comes to "calling the turn" on agitators and demagogues.—National Provisioner.
